Proposal Guidelines and Application Packet

This toolkit provides information on the University of Iowa Center for Advancement Affinity Groups, the requirements of their establishment, and the ongoing support available.

AFFINITY GROUP 101

What is an affinity group?

An affinity group is a collection of alumni with shared interests and common bonds that extend beyond the traditional alumni club regional structure, including experiences, identities, and activities (such as cultural/heritage ties or student activities). Affinity groups are formed to establish and engage a mutually beneficial relationship between UI alumni and friends and to provide an avenue for alumni to continue their connections with the university.

What do affinity groups do?

Affinity groups support community building and provide visibility and practical support to alumni and friends around the world. Affinity groups:

- Act as advocates for the University of Iowa.
- Encourage UI alumni and friends to maintain an active relationship with the university and each other.
- Facilitate events and programming focused on increasing involvement within all alumni age groups and for diversified interest areas.
- Foster a spirit of camaraderie among alumni who share similar interests.
- Inspire and support students.
- Receive access to services, benefits, and support from the UI.
- Strengthen the alumni community and its relationship to the university.
- Engage in intellectual, cultural, and athletic life, as well as social and networking opportunities, to enhance professional development.
- Enhance and enrich the scholarly and cultural resources of the UI.

What are some questions to consider when thinking about starting an affinity group?

- What are the group's goals? Do they align with the university's goals? (provost.uiowa.edu/ui-academic-mission)
- Can an existing group or university entity accomplish these goals?
- How is the group different from other UI affinity groups?
- Is there sufficient interest among alumni to support the new group?
- Is this a viable short-term and/or long-term organization?
- How would this group offer value to the university?
- What affinity are you interested in connecting in support of the UI?
- Are there current students on campus who can continue your group's legacy with a similar affinity?

What are the affinity group leader expectations?

The primary leader (president, chair, or co-chair) of an affinity group is expected to:

- Act as the main contact between the UI and the affinity group members and maintain regular contact with the staff liaison. In most cases that means at least monthly communication.
- Respond in a timely manner (usually 48 hours) to inquiries or requests from the UI and alumni.
- Follow the group's governing documents and bylaws including holding elections as specified.

AFFINITY GROUPS

- Maintain the affinity group's good standing with the UI.
- In most cases, devote 3-6 hours per month to this leadership position (may require more time during busy event seasons).
- Act as a positive representative and chief ambassador for the UI.
- Establish an affinity group board of at least four people to help guide the mission and decisions when necessary.
- Serve as an active participant in regular board meetings providing positive leadership and direction to the group's board.

Leadership responsibilities:

- Schedule and preside over group meetings.
- Solicit agenda items and distribute agenda prior to meetings.
- Lead the board in establishing an annual plan and goals.
- Create a calendar with timelines for each project.
- Ensure each project has a lead with accountability for deadlines.
- Assign responsibilities for individual duties or events and follow up on progress.
- Appoint committee chairs (if applicable) and assist with committee member selection.
- Ensure that all committees stay on target with specified tasks.
- Ensure that publicity, activity reports, attendee reports, minutes, funding requests, year-end survey, and photographs are submitted in a timely manner.
- Support UI affinity group events and programs throughout the year.
- Understand and uphold the university's branding and reputation management policies.

All leaders and board members must abide by these guidelines:

- Keep the interest of the affinity group and/or UI foremost in mind when providing assistance and avoid all conflicts of interest.
- Adhere to UI policies and procedures and ask for clarification if you do not understand them.
- Serve as a positive university representative and conduct yourself in an appropriate, professional manner.
- Strive to achieve the highest quality and effectiveness in both the process and output of volunteer work without promoting any self-interest.

The UI values its volunteers and works to create services and programs to support and enhance their involvement. However, UI volunteers conducting themselves in a manner inconsistent with the university's mission, or these expectations, may be removed as affinity group leaders.
